ALUMNI COUNCIL REPORT

Dear Alumnus,

As you read this issue of the Aviso you may ask yourself, as I have, where the summer of '83 (or this year, for that matter) has gone. Time certainly has passed quickly for me with all the summer alumni activities, including the successful Summer Enrichment Conference, heritage alumnae luncheon (70 in attendance) and the Heritage Square project which included a dinner and phonothon, and various alumni gatherings.

A new year is upon us (both academically and fiscally). God has blessed the college with another record attendance. Praise His Name!

You may remember from a previous Aviso article that the Alumni Council accepted the challenge in July of 1982 of raising $100,000 for the college general operating fund. After 14 months, $72,713 has been received toward this goal. The Alumni Association is deserving of recognition for its continued tangible support of its alma mater. A review of the last five years' giving statistics point out that alumni have contributed $671,086 to capital, general, and other restricted funds. Nearly a quarter million dollars during this five-year interval was designated for the general fund while $166,175 boosted the capital (bricks and mortar) projects. Thanks to each one of you for your part in supporting the college.

A hearty welcome to two new Alumni Council members! Dr. Stu Walker ('71) is an assistant professor of biology at Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana, while Roy Kern ('73), former director of Cedarville College public relations department, currently serves as assistant manager for the Larry Barnes Insurance Agency of Trenton, Missouri.

A very special thank you to outgoing chairman Jim Engelmann ('66) and Dale Pritchett ('68), vice chairman, for their faithful service to the Cedarville College Alumni Association.

Sincerely in Christ,

Gary Kuhn

Summer Enrichment Conference

What is the average salary for the average American family? How much more does this family spend than it earns annually? Consumer prices have jumped by what percent since 1967? Which of the presidents' faces appear on U.S. currency? How many Americans die without a will? These and many more similar questions were raised and answered at the Alumni Summer Enrichment Conference.

The theme for the conference was "The Christian, His Finances and the Economy." Speakers selected for their expertise in diversified economic fields included Dr. Allen Monroe who addressed Christians and the Economic Order, Contemporary Economic Problems, and Sound Investment Strategy. Dr. Robert Gromacki presented an excellent Biblical challenge with his messages on Who Owns What?, Are You a Biblical Giver? and Do You Love God or Gold? Cedarville College business manager Kenneth St. Clair shared ways on How to Pay Less Tax...Legally and How To Develop a Family Budget.

Various other topics presented at the conference in the elective section included: teaching your children financial responsibility, real estate, life insurance, and ways for the homemaker to save dollars.

For the 68 alumni, family members, and friends of Cedarville College, the third annual Summer Enrichment Conference was, according to one participant, "a great three days in Cedarville."

The conference is not all business and Bible study. Much time is set aside for recreational activities which included basketball, racquetball, and late night volleyball games. Some of the men enjoyed playing golf, while their wives pursued the sales at the many antique shops in nearby Waynesville. There is something for everyone – museums, fishing, paddleboating, or just the freedom to rest.

The children received more than babysitting, thanks to the organization of Cindy Carr ('76) who arranged for area alumni to assist in a daily program for the children.

A special feature of the conference was the "mystery dinner!" which ended the conference Saturday afternoon. A meal of spaghetti, meat balls, vegetables, salad, bread, tomato juice, ice cream, brownies, and the tableware were identified by a corresponding economic term. The order in which each person requested his four course meal was the way he or she received it. Many moments were spent in laughter as a typical course of dividends, principal, and stocks and bonds produced brownies, spaghetti, carrots, and celery sticks with only a knife with which to eat.

Several alumni deserving recognition for their services on the organization committee are: John ('60) and Sandra (Millikin '59) Entner, Michael ('68) and Carol (Simonetti '68) Hamilton, Deborah (Bush '68) Haffey and Ron Coriell ('69). It was the desire of this committee to provide a low cost, spiritually enriching vacation. All responses indicated it was worth the $35 fee. We hope to see you at Summer Enrichment '84 on July 4-7!

Alumni Gatherings

Plan now to attend the following alumni fellowship opportunities in your area. Similar gatherings have proved to be a great way to support Cedarville College, Coach Don Callan, and all the athletes as they strive for victory. If you live in the area, you will receive a separate mailing giving the details. If you wish to know more about any of these events, please write or call the Alumni Office or the alumnus indicated.

Placement Serving Alumni

The Placement Office continues to expand its services for Cedarville College alumni. Due to increasing contacts and responses from employers, requests are contingent on various years of experience. The Placement Office wishes to increase its data bank to be able to respond positively to these job opportunities. If alumni sense God is leading them to another area, the Placement Office would be happy to assist them in any way possible.

Available monthly at no cost is the Job Opportunity Bulletin from the Placement Office. Current vacancies in government, business, social services, elementary education, secondary education, administration, and higher education are listed. After January 1, the cost is $5 per year. Dave Gaffner ('69), director of placement, encourages alumni who have responsibility for hiring to advertise opportunities for employment in this job bulletin.

The establishment of an alumni network system would be helpful to our college family. This summer an alumnus hired a "top-notch" graduating senior. That is a repeat of other similar situations. If you are in a position to hire or know of career opportunities/job vacancies, please contact Dave Gaffner.

The second annual Career Day is being held this October on Tuesday the 18th. Those alumni returning for Homecoming are encouraged to stay to represent their places of business for the current student population. Last year alumni represented accounting firms, a social agency, large industry, and institutions of higher learning. If you can participate in this year's Career Day, please contact the Placement Office at Cedarville College - 513/766-2211.

Tuition Free Credits

For four high school juniors, earning ten hours of college credit hardly seemed like an enjoyable way to spend a summer vacation. However, it proved to be otherwise for Elaine Gardner, Curt Sanders, Elizabeth Shepherd, and Jeffrey Graven, children of Cedarville alumni, who experienced college life this summer on the campus of Cedarville College.

This tuition-free program is designed to acquaint young people with academic life on a Christian campus by permitting them to take up to ten hours of general education courses.

Elaine is the daughter of Dave ('56) and Joan (Austin '56N) Gardner, while Beth's parents are Ray ('60) and Phyllis Shepherd. Don ('81) and Mary Sanders are the parents of Curt. Jeff is the son of Richard ('61N) and Donis (Collier '61) Graven.

One-Liners

President Paul Dixon announced that the theme for the 1983-84 college year is "His Best Requires Our Best."

Patterson Hall, former men's dormitory, has been remodeled to house the new Patterson Clinic. The former health center was demolished September 20.

Dr. Rex Rogers, academic computer services director, reports that the Cedarville College Academic Computer Center, housing a Digital Equipment Corporation "VAX 11-750" computer system, will be operational for the 1982-83 fall quarter.

Copy Center manager Steve Hubbard was elected to serve as a village council member in Cedarville.

Dr. Martin Clark, director of counseling services, was recently awarded certification by the National Board of Certified Counselors. Dr. Clark was in the first group in the nation to achieve certification by the NBCC, a new professional regulatory agency for counselors.

The climax for the 1983 Cedarville College track team was winning the co-championship of the NCCAA, sharing the coveted title with Mid-American Nazarene College.

A new water system has been added to campus and is expected to be operational by November!

Duo vocalists, pianists, organists, and trumpeters Ron and Gary Matthews presented a sacred concert on October 1.

Dr. David Burnham, senior pastor of Bibletown Community Church in Boca Raton, Florida, was the speaker for the Fall Bible Conference, September 26-30.

The winner of the 11th Annual Cedarville Baptist Open with a 36-hole total of 147 was Tim Birk ('79) from Ypsilanti, Michigan.

Dr. Andy Telford, Bible College teacher for over fifty years and founder of three churches in Canada, addressed the pastors attending Cedarville's 16th Annual Pastors' Conference September 12-15. Dr. Hugh Hall, director of church relations, coordinated the conference.

Coming from 12 states and 62 different churches, 696 high school students and 46 chaperones attended Salute to Summer, states Dave Ormsbee ('78), director of admissions.

The new album, "The Kingsmen Quartet," features Tom DeMeester ('83), and seniors Paul Hayes, Dan Price, Wes Polsdorfer, and Dave Olsen, accompanist.

The Student Body Loan and Grant Fund, which was founded in 1972, reached the milestone of $100,000 during the summer. Over $7,000 will be given in grants as the principal is loaned to students.

New Faculty Profile

Eight new faculty join Cedarville College in anticipation of an enrollment of over 1,750.

Dr. Clifford W. Fawcett assumes the chairmanship of the Department of Business Administration. Dr. Fawcett brings to Cedarville extensive business, teaching, and consulting experience.

Dr. Raymond Bartholomew rejoins Cedarville's English department. He is a 1957 alumnus and taught at Cedarville from 1959-1966.

Gary Percesepe, a 1975 graduate, is assistant professor of Philosophy. He will soon receive a Ph.D. in philosophy from St. Louis University.

The Nursing Department welcomes two new professors. Mark Klimek is assistant professor of Nursing. He holds an M.S.N. from Wayne State University and formerly was an instructor of Nursing at Youngstown State University. Ruth Slocum has been a missionary nurse with Baptist Mid-Missions for the past 23 years. Miss Slocum is assistant professor of Nursing at Cedarville.

Martha Johnson becomes assistant professor of Secretarial Administration. She received her M.A. from the University of Northern Iowa and has taught at the college level for the last eight years.

Karol Hunt joins the Health and Physical Education Department as assistant professor. She received her Ph.D. from the University of Iowa in 1983. She is also a rated official in Indiana for high school basketball, volleyball, track, and baseball.

Stephen Young is coach/instructor of Physical Education. He is a 1975 graduate of Cedarville and has eight years of teaching experience in Florida schools.

by Dwight Myfelt '85

"Our goal as a department," states Dr. James Biddle, "is to prepare a teacher to know what to do, how to do it, and why it ought to be done." Undertaking such a task requires that there exist a quality program and strong faculty to operate within that program. "Both of these are present within the Education Department," states Biddle.

Members of the department present a blend of formal preparation and practical experience in Christian, mission, and public schools. James Biddle, Ph.D., chairman of the department, teaches Philosophy of Education. Dwayne Frank, Ed.D., is the director of secondary education and is an instructor in secondary methods courses. Merlin Ager, Ph.D., is director of student teaching and instructs The Learner and the Learning Process, and The Christian School courses. Susan Baker, M.Ed., instructor in mathematics content and methods, and Sharon Eimers, M.Ed., instructor in science methods and special education, are presently working to earn their doctorates at the University of Cincinnati. Beverly Monroe, M.A., is working on her doctorate at Miami University and instructs courses in children's literature and social studies methods. Ellen Glanville, M.S., is an instructor in special education and Helen Hall, M.A., is an instructor in reading and early childhood courses. Omer Bonenberger, Ph.D., is an instructor in language arts, reading in content areas, and special education. Ron Coriell, M.A., instructs students in the area of arts and crafts.

The program for teacher education is strong. Approval by the State of Ohio Department of Education has been granted to offer programs leading to the four-year Ohio teaching certificate in four areas: elementary education (grades 1-8), kindergarten-elementary education (grades K-8), secondary education (grades 7-12 with 19 fields of specialization), and special teaching (grades K-12, music and physical education). The department also offers a program of study in special education.

The general program for any student involved in the Education Department combines course work with practical classroom experience. Each student is required to take the four basic courses: Introduction to Education, Exceptional Children, Philosophy of Education, and The Learner and the Learning Process. Also included in this program are three types of schoolroom experiences. The first is preliminary student involvement which consists of five consecutive days in the school setting, observing the school in general. The second type consists of three separate experiences during which the student becomes actively involved in teaching in the field of his choice. The third experience is a quarter of student teaching in which the student assumes complete control of the classroom.

In discussing the strengths of the program, Dr. Biddle stresses the importance of these three requirements. Each student completes his education having spent the equivalent of two quarters in the classroom. This time contributes to beginning teacher confidence, poise, and the ability to teach practically. Dr. Biddle also stresses the importance of the philosophical and theological understanding of Christian education that the program provides.

In addition to these basic courses and experiences, each student is instructed in his field of interest, whether elementary, special, or secondary education.

Growth is also taking place within the department. Recent additions have been the inclusion of the Spanish teaching field in the secondary education program and the addition of special education in which two programs of study are presently offered. Course work may be taken which prepares the student to serve special students within church ministries but provides no certification. The second program offers certification which may be obtained through cooperation with Wright State University. Students complete course work in their field of interest at the college and receive certification for that work from the college. Special education certification is received from Wright State. The degree is awarded from Cedarville College.

Special notice is deserving in the area of special education. Ellen Glanville is the full time instructor in this program. Because of their continuing interest in the education and care of the special child, Shepherd's Inc. of Union Grove, Wisconsin, has underwritten the services of Miss Glanville to the college. Continuing development of this field includes the goal of eventually offering complete certification from the college in special education.

Another area of growth which the department is considering is in the area of graduate programs. This year the department is undertaking a formal feasibility study for a graduate program in education.

A strong program and a strong faculty combining to produce strong teachers: this is the goal of the Education Department. Continue to pray as the department strives to build upon a program which is already producing teachers who know what to do, how to do it, and why it ought to be done.

Allen and Ruth Fisher

Translation Work Culminates

by Sandi (Welch '64) Harner

As I write this article, a shipment of New Testaments is heading for the Ivory Coast – the culmination of approximately six years' work by Ruth (Hardy '69) and Allen ('66) Fisher, missionaries with Baptist Mid-Missions. These New Testaments have been translated into the Neao dialect and are now ready for distribution. The work involved has been long and tedious. The Fishers first had to reduce the Neao dialect of the Guere language to writing. Hardly any linguistic work had been done in the dialect before the Fishers began in 1974.

Only half the children and very few of the adults can speak or read French, which is the official language of the Ivory Coast. Therefore, having the Word of God in the language of the people was a necessity in the church planting ministry there. "The basic thrust of our work is in translation," Ruth explained. "But our most important goal is in church planting and establishing churches here. You can't establish churches without the Word of God in their language." The Fishers are currently beginning to establish the third church in this area.

The Fishers carefully prepared themselves for the linguistic work they planned to do. Allen's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Fisher, were missionaries in the Central African Republic for twenty years. "I had all my grade school training in Africa; so you could say that I just grew up being a missionary," Allen explained. He came to Cedarville College knowing that God wanted him in linguistics. He was graduated in 1966 as the first foreign language major at Cedarville College. After that he earned a master's degree in palestinology at The American Institute/Hebrew University in Israel, attended two linguistic institutes, and studied language in France for a year. "I can't think of a better background to work in translation than a strong English background," Ruth added. After Cedarville College, she studied linguistics in both Switzerland and England.

"Nationals have been a big help to us," Allen said. "At first we spent well over half our time training nationals. This has paid off. Nationals now train other nationals." One national particularly is very gifted in the area of language. He is presently studying Hebrew and is at the top of his class competing with university graduates. He has a strong motivation and longs to see God's Word in his own language.

The computer has done much to change the work of the Fishers, and they are excited about this potential. As they left the States August 25, Allen carried onto the plane a word processor for their work in the Ivory Coast. "It eliminates the many times that you have to retype something. I can change a word throughout the entire work, all at one time," Fisher explained eagerly. He also has used the computer to prepare courses to teach translation. He now has eight courses on computer. The dictionary of the Neao dialect is now alphabetized on computer. Perhaps the most exciting potential for the computer, however, is the program on which Allen is currently working – one which will actually translate one dialect into another. This program breaks down words, analyzes them, and substitutes the proper word from another dialect. "It would normally take me ten years to translate the New Testament into another dialect. With this program in the computer, I could have a New Testament translated in about one year."

Would the computer save money? Just think – it eliminates the need to pay someone to type copy. "We estimate that it costs $15,000 for someone to type. I have six translations needed for Chad. That's $90,000. You can buy the machine for $9,000!"

The Fishers have that machine to finish their work in the Ivory Coast. But Ruth and Allen spend October to December each year in the Chad working on the translation of six dialects there. They have approximately $6500 toward the purchase of a computer for their work in this country. (Contributions can be sent to the Allen Fisher Computer Account with Baptist Mid-Missions.)

When asked about their needs, the Fishers state that the computer is probably the greatest. But workers are also needed. This is a field where short-term workers could be most effective. Typists are always needed, as well as personnel for filing, maintenance, and the usual field responsibilities. "But I need an artist," Allen said seriously. "Every time I fill out forms for needs on the field, I list the need for an artist, but I still do not have one." The need consists of someone who can do line drawings, someone who could visit the Ivory Coast and see the culture. Then the Fishers can write and explain the pictures needed to illustrate their work and it could be culturally accurate.

The Fishers press on. The work of translating the Old Testament is before them. Six translations are needed in the Chad. Indeed, the work of these missionaries will bring much faith to these people among whom they work. Pray for their work and ask what you can do to help bring God's Word to these hungry people.

Alumnotes

The 70's

Elaine Dixon ('71) has been employed by Spokane (Washington) Public School for nine years. Recently she was promoted to the position of administrative secretary to the director of personnel services.

Mark and Debbie (Kitting) ('71) Sluder have moved to Charlotte, North Carolina, where Mark is the director of Christian education at Trinity Presbyterian Church.

Along with teaching production agriculture at Greene Vocational School, Don Allen ('72) is a pilot who flies speakers and missionaries to various locations in the eastern, central, and southern portions of the United States. Don, his wife Pam, and their four children live on a small farm near Cedarville, Ohio.

Roger Miller ('72) is general accounting supervisor for Simpson Paper Company in Vicksburg, Michigan. He and his wife Debbie live in Kalamazoo with their three children.

After being admitted to the California bar in 1982, Kathryn (Karsian) ('74) Branman was associated with the firm of Shafer & Giardinelli through March, 1983. In April she opened her own law practice in Orange County, California. Her husband Jeffrey is an executive with King Koil.

Phil ('74) and Becky McDonald are now missionary appointees under A.B.W.E., preparing to serve the Lord in Togo, West Africa. In 1982 Phil completed work for a doctoral degree at Michigan State University where his emphasis was educational planning and development economics in third world countries. Phil, Becky, and son Matthew reside in Jenison, Michigan.

After accepting the pastorate at Evergreen Baptist Church, Tacoma, Washington, Howie Wolff ('74) joined the Midland Volunteer Fire Department. This has given him many opportunities to share God's grace, and he has seen his next door neighbor come to know Christ through this outreach.

At commencement ceremonies held June 4, 1983, Stephen Costley ('76) received the juris doctor degree from Dickinson School of Law, Carlisle, Pennsylvania.

Dale Johnson ('76), an M.A. candidate in historical theology at Covenant Theological Seminary, St. Louis, Missouri, was the recipient of the Max Belz Memorial Award for leadership in Christian education. The presentation was made during Covenant's commencement exercises.

On May 13, 1983, Michael Mariage ('77) received the M.R.E. degree from Grand Rapids Baptist Seminary. He and his wife Colleen (Ryan) ('68N) are looking forward to the pastorate.

Kenton Amstutz ('78) was graduated from the University of Osteopathic Medicine and Allied Health Sciences in Des Moines, Iowa. He and his wife Marilyn (Horne) ('78) moved to Biloxi, Mississippi, where Kent is in a three-year residency program in pediatrics at Keesler Air Force Base.

Alan Morgan ('79) has moved to Kalamazoo, Michigan, to assume the position of assistant to the pastor in counseling at the Calvary Baptist Church.

Lisa Overturf ('79N) lives in Grand Junction, Colorado, and is presently an EKG technician.

De Land, Florida is the new address for Jeff ('79) and Criss (Wilson) ('82) Reep. Jeff has accepted an assistant basketball coaching position at Stetson University in De Land.

Karen Seymour ('79) has completed work for a masters degree in linguistics. She recently attended A.B.W.E.'s candidate seminar at Baptist Bible College, Clarks Summit, Pennsylvania.

Alan ('79) and Janice (Zachary) ('79) Webber were graduated from Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, in August, 1983. Janice received the M.A. in theater. Allen received the M.M. in music theory and has begun work on his Ph.D. at Florida State University.

David Woodall ('79) has begun his final year of study at Grand Rapids Baptist Seminary. He also teaches Bible and chemistry at Oakfield Baptist Academy where his wife Margot (Martens) ('78) teaches math and science. The Woodalls live in Gowen, Michigan.

The 80's

Craig Colas ('80) has begun his senior year of dental school at Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio. His wife Nancy (Tenney) ('81) is employed as a medical secretary.

Dave Cremean ('80) began work toward a master's degree at the University of Dayton, Ohio, in August. He is a graduate assistant in the English Department.

Patty Farmwald ('80) is now employed by Cardinal Local Schools in Middlefield, Ohio. She is responsible for the special reading program.

In December, 1983, Mark Lones ('80) will finish seminary at Grand Rapids Baptist Seminary. He also works at Ford Paint Company. His wife Pam (Hammond) ('80) works part time for Radio Bible Class as a mail analyst. They look forward to getting a pastorate soon.

Southfield, Michigan, is the new residence of Daniel Poole ('80) who is an account executive at WWJ and WJOL in Detroit. Dan writes and sells commercial time to various businesses in the area.

Michael ('80) and Debby (Zaller) ('78) Stephens reside in Xenia, Ohio. Michael works as employment manager for Greene Memorial Hospital and is looking forward to completing his master's degree in business administration in December. The Stephens have one son, Matthew, who is two years old.

On May 9, 1981, James Carroll ('81N) and Deborah Moore ('82N) were married. They now live in Clairton, Pennsylvania, with their son Drew Alan who was born January 31, 1982. Another son, Christopher Dale, was born January 29, 1983, but died hours after birth. James is general manager of a Bob Evans Farm restaurant in West Mifflin.

Russell Mierta ('81) is a professional photographer with Yearbook Associates, Millers Falls, Massachusetts. He resides in Burton, Michigan.

Ten years ago, an unusual event took place in the lives of 20 Cedarville students. At Homecoming '83, this group will be reunited for the first time. Known for their endurance, these men ran across the United States as part of the student body fund raising effort. The project was called "Cross Country for Christ," and it stretched from coast to coast, more than 3,200 miles.

Cross Country for Christ

The run started in the Oregon coast city of Astoria at noon, August 20, 1973, and ended in Portland, Maine, at 11:45 p.m., September 7. Completed in 18½ days, about 17 hours ahead of the schedule set at the start, this unique accomplishment may be the only one of its kind ever attempted by a group of collegians, according to an NCAA official.

It meant plodding onward 24 hours a day in relays, averaging about 8 miles per hour, through chilling rains sweeping down from the mountains, and the furnace-like summer heat of Wyoming. The long grind produced some problems, but nothing major, as the runners ran around the clock following a schedule that proved to be tougher than expected. Each runner logged two one-hour running periods each day for three consecutive days, with the fourth day off. Riding time was spent in the four vans which accompanied the runners. Those not running were kept busy, when not sleeping, giving interviews and addresses to various church groups along the way.

"The project, designed to raise $100,000, fell short of its goal," stated Elvin King, organizer of the reunion. Asked if he would ever attempt another such rigorous endeavor, King replied, "I'd have to give it a lot of thought."

years and as a trustee of Cedarville College in the 40's and 50's.

Marianna (Frederick '50) Bereis, Carmichael, California, died March 6, 1981. She is survived by her husband Emory ('50).

Joseph Weah ('74), a native of Liberia, West Africa, died in April, 1983. After graduation from Cedarville, he returned to Monrovia, Liberia, as assistant pastor of Calvary Baptist Church where he was also director of the Christian Day School. He was appointed chaplain of the Supreme Court of Monrovia, Liberia, in 1977. He is survived by his wife Victoria, who served in the circulation department of the Cedarville College library ('71-74), two daughters, and five sons.

Steven P. Sheetz ('75), died March 6, 1983, of a sudden illness. He is survived by his wife Linda (Cupan '76N) and a four-year old son Jason who reside in Lindenwold, New Jersey.

Rebecca K. Klimek ('77) died June 22, 1983, as the result of an automobile accident. She was a music instructor at Grandview Park Baptist School, Des Moines, Iowa, where she had taught since graduation.

Joel Hunter ('79N), Du Bois, Pennsylvania, died June 22, 1983, after an extended illness. He is survived by his parents and three brothers, one of whom, Nathan, is a 1983 graduate of Cedarville College.

Lucia M. Strobridge, 61, died July 13, 1983. She was born in Jamestown, Ohio, September 12, 1921, and had been a Cedarville resident for most of her life. She worked for several years at the college as a secretary-receptionist for the health center. Survivors include her husband Harold, and three sons, one of whom, Randy, is a 1981 graduate of Cedarville College.

Dr. George L. Lawlor, 75, Covington, Kentucky, Professor Emeritus of Greek and Bible at Cedarville College, died June 22, 1983. He began teaching at Cedarville in 1959, retiring in 1974. He was chosen Honorary Alumnus 1975. Lawlor Hall, a men's dormitory was named in his honor. Dr. Lawlor authored several books including, Ecumenical Movement, Epistle of Jude, Almah.. Virgin or Young Woman, and Beatitudes for Today. After his retirement from Cedarville, he continued teaching at Northern Kentucky Bible Institute held at Calvary Baptist Church, Covington, Kentucky.

On May 9, 1981, James Carroll ('81N) and Deborah Moore ('82N) were married. They now live in Clairton, Pennsylvania, with their son Drew Alan who was born January 31, 1982. Another son, Christopher Dale, was born January 29, 1983, but died hours after birth. James is general manager of a Bob Evans Farm restaurant in West Mifflin.

Focus on the Field

Roy and Nancy (Towle '69) Jones report the beginning of a new work in the city of Coslada, Spain. A meeting place has been obtained and dedicated. They request prayer for this new venture.

Kenneth ('70) and Alice Cole report a continuing staff shortage at the Leyte Baptist Clinic, Philippines. Pray that God will raise up medically trained individuals to help in that work.

Mark ('79) and Deborah (Hall '83N) Seymour are planning to leave Quebec, Canada, for Chad, Africa, God's chosen field of service for them, on September 6. Mark recently took his ordination exam and was set apart for the gospel ministry. Pray for them as the move takes place.

Jack ('77) and Lynne Caulfield have accepted a call to help in the work with Grace Bible Fellowship and the Cheshire Christian Academy in New Hampshire. Pray for them as they initiate a campus outreach program at Keene State College.

Robert O. Impson

Tribute to Cedarville Chief

Cedar Cliff School District's new superintendent has a tough act to follow. Yet, following Robert O. Impson's ('48) twenty-eight year stint as superintendent of the Cedarville, Ohio, school system, could be considered an honor.

Impson, who has been superintendent of Cedar Cliff since August 10, 1955, is looked upon by the local community as a man totally dedicated to work, generous to all, and an outstanding leader.

More than 400 people paid tribute in grand style to this educator at an appreciation dinner in June catered by Dr. Allen Monroe. Following the dinner, several distinguished educators gave testimonials in honor of Impson. Special presentations followed and climaxed with giving Impson a sully for his harness racing hobby and announcing that the newly constructed wing at the Cedar Cliff School will be named the Robert O. Impson Educational Wing.

Since his graduation from Cedarville College in 1948, Impson has been an active Greene County community member. He began his teaching career in Bellbrook where he taught English, social studies, and biology for two years and was promoted to the principalship his third year. Soon after this he became the superintendent of schools for the Bellbrook district. A short time later he was asked to become the Cedar Cliff School District Superintendent. Moving to Cedarville was "just like coming home" to both Impson and his wife, Edna Marie, for they had grown up and met at the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphans' Home (now called the Ohio Veterans Children's Home) in Xenia, Ohio.

Responding to being called a workaholic, Impson replies: "It's just that I like to keep active." Keeping active could be called an understatement. Besides putting in 60 hours per week at the school, Mr. Impson generously donates his weekends and nights to groups who need a sports official, lecturer, bus driver, social director, football statistician, or other important positions that he fills so well.

The last to speak at his retirement dinner and program, Impson summed up by saying, "Work is work only if you'd rather be doing something else." Robert Impson enjoyed his "work," investing his life in the lives of thousands of young people.

Lounge Honors Alumni

Historically, Cedarville College has had several student lounge areas. "Society Hall was the first area. When Old Main was constructed in 1895, this room located on the third floor reflected the importance the founding fathers of the college placed on 'learning the social graces.'"

Through the years, the areas assigned for student activities varied as utilization of buildings changed. At one time a basement room in the Carnegie Library – now the Fine Arts Building – served the purpose. In more recent years a small room in the current College Center next to the old gymnasium on central campus served as a student lounge. Major activities were conducted in either the cafeteria or the gymnasium as these facilities were available.

Today, the students have "Heritage Square", a 12,500 square foot area located on the second floor of the newly constructed Athletic Center.

"Heritage Square" is designed to blend the fine traditions of the early days of Cedarville College with the student activities of today and tomorrow," states Myron Youngman ('76), Director of Campus Activities. Youngman is responsible for coordinating all student activities on campus as well as overseeing the utilization of the new activity center.

"Heritage Square" was chosen as the name because it is an ideal location to convey the traditions and fine heritage of the college which have been passed down from the very inception of the college in 1887.

"Heritage Square" will provide lounges and game areas for students, faculty, staff, and guests, and the area will feature a unique "turn-of-the-century" decor. A walking mall will include storefronts of a general store and print shop reminiscent of early downtown Cedarville.

Contributed by the class of '83 and already in place (covering an entire wall) is a photo wall mural of Old Main as it was in 1914. A gazebo, display cases for memorabilia, and "The Gavelyte Deli" will be other featured areas.

A campaign to raise approximately $220,000 to complete Heritage Square is currently being conducted with the Heritage Alumni of the college – those who attended the college prior to 1954. Approximately $25,000 was pledged and/or received by the end of August.

Mr. Roy Linton ('38), is serving as chairman of the Heritage Square Advisory Committee. Other members of the committee include: James Anderson ('38), Harper Bickett ('24), Hugh Ned Brown ('41), William Collins ('18), William Dunlap ('50), James Hartman ('52), Ed Irons ('52), Eugene Kavanagh ('41), Walter Linton ('35), and Merle Rife ('16).
